Just Published,

A COMPENDIOUS SYSTEM

Of Practical Surveying and dividing of land; briefly comprized under the following heads, viz.

TWENTY-THREE Geometrical Definitions, eleven Geometrical Positions, exhibiting to view the properties and dependencies of triangles; followed by problems and examples preparatory to Trigonometry, heights and distances. Then fifteen problems and examples necessarily previous to calculating a Survey succeeded by seven surveys, the area of the four first is found geometrically, and of the whole number by difference of latitude and departure, shewing how to take an inaccessible boundary, find the bearing and distance of the closing line without running it, also the distances to an inaccessible corner from the two adjacent corners, followed by examples of offsets on to winding streams of water, shewing how to ascertain the area without the trouble of measuring the windings with chams and instruments—a crooked water course straitened, and a quantity of land on each side found by these offsets.

Ten examples of dividing land, with many sub-divisions, leading into the most critical circumstances that can occur in practice; an example of Intersections, and an example shewing how the bearings of a field may be truly taken where the needle is attracted, altho' the attraction may vary in quantity and denomination at every station; examples shewing the method of measuring by the chain only. All the rules are clear and explicit. This work contains the tables of difference of latitude and departure and of logarithms.

Orders sent to Joseph and James Cruckshank, Booksellers, No. 87, High-street, Philadelphia, Bonsall and Niles, 173, Market Street, Baltimore, or the Subscriber in Wilmington (Del.) will be duly attended to.

Those who have the care of subscription papers for this work, are raquested to send their respective numbers as soon as possible, to whom the quota's will be sent agreeably to the proposals.

EXEMPLIFICATION.

[From the Columbian and Massachusetts Centinel Federalist.]

The Poets of our country are, almost without an exception, Patriots. In rousing the American people to a sense of their danger from foreign intrigue and internal faction, they have been in the advanced guard. That they are not wearied in well doing, almost every public celebration gives abundant evidence—The tuneful bard of New-Hampshire on the last anniversary of the President's natal day, produced a song which would not suffer in those ranks where "Adams and Liberty" should be the commander: The following is a specimen of its excellence:

But turn us to Europe—How fares it with France?
What!—confounded? amaz'd! such astonishment ne'er rose!
From the North bursts Suwarrow! I see him advance,
That Victor of Victors! that Hero of Heroes!
Hardy Russian! Mon Dieu!
If this course you pursue,
You will leave mighty WASHINGTON nothing to do—
At that name the muse kindles, and twining fresh bays,
Blends with ADAMS's Glory great WASHINGTON's Praise!

The audacious—the atrocious mutilation, by the True-American, and Time-Serving Editors, of an official detection, published in this Gazette, of the falsehoods palmed upon the public respecting Jonathan Robbins, will be hereafter more fully unveiled; and the caitiffs who have been guilty of the outrage upon truth, decency and honor, exposed to the infamy they merit.

It is of no consequence to me, that a Scoundrel who commits such an imposture on the public, be the protégé of metropolitan wealth, taste and patriottism; that he receive his daily contribution, alike from every class of the tribe of Midas; no, no; when truth and justice demand the punishment of a criminal, he ought to be scourged, however numerous his accomplices.

A Toast for a Land of Liberty.

"May every Swab, who calls in question the wisdom of the Captain, that keeps the reckoning, be ordered to the gang-way, and receive a round dozen."

The above stupid and malignant effusion was uttered by a quantity of Sailors at Boston, calling themselves the Marine Society. The sentiment is exactly in corroboration of the opinion I have always entertained of the mass of our Sea Captains; and I am only sorry to find, that a sentiment so mean, so slavish, so unmanly, so brute-like, could gain admittance into the discriminating Gazette of John Russell.

It has been PRINCIPALLY, by listening to the mercenary tales of unprincipled, lying Sailors, and contraband traders and smugglers, that the people and government of America, have been led into all their errors, embarrassments and misfortunes.

If there was a gentleman who sanctioned this toast, by withholding his indignation; if there was one man of sense or honesty, who heard the toast and cursed it not, let him immediately do so.

In the Aurora of the 5th October last, we find a long letter from Jonathan Robbins, dated on board the Sprightly, Charleston, July 30, 1799. It is prefixed by a letter "to the editor of the Aurora," in which the writer, with great prudence, says "you might use my name, but I do not wish to encounter party rage, when there is not an absolute necessity for it.—As I was acquainted with the deceased, it will be some satisfaction to see the last sentiments of my friend laid before his country," the writer wishes to be understood that he means America. Then follows the pathetic letter of that man of various names, Jonathan, or Nathan, or William, or "whatever title please his ear." He informs us that "there were a great number of Americans on board the Hermione," of course these unfortunate wretches "were treated in the most shocking manner." But here the judicious caution and timidity of Jonathan appears, for he "fears to mention their names, as probably they would be hunted up by the bloodhounds that pursued him." It would have been indeed impudent to have named these Irish American murderers, because the British have always had a strange custom of hanging felons; and it is ridiculously enough supposed in the courts of conscience, as well as of King's bench that justice and the good of society require that pirates and assassins should be punished with death. But the amiable Jonathan proceeds thus "It was indeed a sudden thing," alluding to the murders &c. on board the above frigate, for mutiny, piracy, and knocking out a man's brains, or cutting his throat, are, after all, nothing but things, and, in the opinion, not only of Mr. Robbins, but of all his party, they are very trifling and harmless things, for which a modern philosopher can easily find an excuse. However, it is hard to interrupt Mr. Robbins long, when he is talking in such an edifying strain upon this moral topic. He proceeds: "It was entirely owing to the barbarity of our infernal commander." The common discipline and severity of a nautical chief are, doubtless, sufficient to justify murder, &c. The whole of this Rabbinical or rather Robbinical doctrine is extremely moral, mild and merciful, and it is submitted whether it might not form a primary article in a didactic work to be entitled "Maritime Ethics, or the Seaman's new creed." Our Jonathan goes on, and asks a very natural question in a voice, now softly plaintive, and now patriotically loud: "And were the unfortunate men, who were pressed to blame? when they were continually beat and abused, would not the most virtuous man, if he had the least spark of American spirit have done the same? Why, Mr. Robbins, here we confess we are a little sceptical: we admire spirit as much as any man; nay, we believe entirely that we are not wholly destitute of American spirit; but, indeed, indeed we hope you or your shade will pity our pusillanimity. We cannot think that our spirit would urge us to the assassin's trade, and we suggest with great diffidence our incredulity concerning your opinion of the probable conduct of a "most virtuous man" in the situation to which you allude. To be sure it is rather an old fashioned sentiment, and might perhaps look very dim in the full blaze of the new philosophy, but a "most virtuous man" generally thinks it a duty to do unto others, as he would wish they would do unto him. Such an individual, therefore would, for his own sake abstain from deeds of violence and blood. Mr. Robbins and his compeers will, doubtless, be shocked at such repugnance, and call it an affected delicacy, and a sort of Christian coyness; but certain it is that a "most virtuous man" would pause a long time, before he plunged a dagger in his neighbor's heart. Many circumstances would conspire to hold the hand of a "most virtuous man." He would feel some few prickings and warnings from a very vigilant bosom friend, called conscience in the works of Bunyan or some other obsolete author. He would think of the pain and inconvenience, commonly felt by one of our species, when run through the body, or knocked down by a marlin spike. He would recollect certain Bible doctrines and moral precepts that he had learned from nurses and priests, and conclude by no very absurd logic, that committing murder would only serve to make him miserable, and conduct to the gallows in this world, and prove a sure guide to a place called Hell, in the next.

It is with pain that we check for a moment the flowing, persuasive and convincing eloquence of our letter writer, who proceeds thus to demonstrate, with mathematical precision, the place of his birth: "It has been said I am an Irishman, but you know I am an American." It seems, from some recent facts, that this You, who frankly calls himself Robbins's friend, must have been a prodigiously knowing one, if he knew this. However, as "strange things happen in our Philosophy, Horatia," perhaps it falls to the lot of a democrat to know the unknown, and to see the invisible.

"For any man, with half an eye,
What's right before him can espy;
But optics sharp it needs, I ween,
To see what is not to be seen."

Mr. Robbins, who, as a seaman, naturally uses rough language, now begins to exercise his privilege, and talks of being "press'd, beat, and abused, by a set of rascals. By these he means certain people, acting under the authority of Great Britain, an island distinguished for the purity of its justice, the excellency of its religion and the humanity of its manners. Mr. R. is here evidently in a passion; for the expression of "a set of rascals" does not attach or apply to Englishmen. Indeed this reproach, like a blow, unavoidably aimed, recoils and wounds none but our Jonathan. For it is clear from his character and conduct, tha the as a very great individual rascal could not with a good grace object to the villainy of others, even if proofs of such villainy were flagrant. Waving our objection to this inconsistency, we now proceed to look at Mr. R. in the act of closing his plaintive epistle. Here, forgetting "his most virtuous man," the place of his birth, and the "set of rascals" by whom he has been injured, he rises to a higher tone, and the "paulo majora canamus" fits on his learned lips. He seems enlarged above the life; and, throwing off the jacket and trowsers of a seamen, appears before our astonished eyes in the character of a civilian, a jurist. For he avers with the gravity of a Martens and a Vattel that, "if a man had entered, perhaps he ought to be delivered up let the treatment be ever so bad, but the Treaty could never intend a pressed man should be delivered up." Here we are lost in admiration of the various talents and learning of Jonathan Robbins. He is a Proteus; the very "admirable Chrichton" of democracy. He is an American; nay more, he is a native of Connecticut, and Danbury, in her register of births enrolls him as her son. He is likewise a mutineer, a pirate, a murderer, and a democrat. He is master of the epistolary stile, and lastly he has a long diplomatic head, and construes a Treaty, and discerns its spirit, and kindly gives us his sage interpretation.

Thus far, having amused ourselves with an analysis and exposition of all the foolish and the factions in this curious epistle, which is a sort of vade mecum and "only sure guide" to the lispers of democracy, it is proper to add that the whole letter, containing, it is true, every thing that William Nash might have said, is a DOWNRIGHT FORGERY. It has been officially proved that there was no such American as Jonathan Robbins, and the man who falsely swore that this was his name and the United States his country, has, at the foot of the gallows, confessed himself to be perjured, and an Irishman. The above letter was, therefore, a fabrication for criminal and party purposes; and men may judge of the morals and objects the faction, who employ such arts; who sometimes rise to the heights of guilt, and sometimes descend to the vile and low grounds of cheat and imposture.

Mrs. JOHNSON, (says a London paper of August last) who so lately distinguished herself in the character of Agatha at Covent Garden, has received overtures from several of the most respectable Provincial Theatres. And we rejoice that her talents, which by due cultivation and practice will assuredly set all competition at defiance, are about to be called into action. Like Mrs. Siddons, the character of Isabella first established her as a great supporter of Melpomene, and like our celebrated actress, Mrs. Johnson, possesses a form and countenance, grace and feeling that marks her out to shine conspicuous in the histrionic art.

ALEXANDRIA, November 16.

The protection afforded to the commerce of America by the armed vessels of the Union, has been sensibly felt by the town of Alexandria—Several new vessels are now fitting out at this port. The schooner Mount Vernon, pierced for 14 guns (built by Mr. John Hughes for messrs. Robert and James Hamilton) was launched a few days ago with peculiar magnificence. She is elegantly moulded, and may truly be said to be as handsome a vessel as ever graced the bosom of the Potomac. A pilot boat, (built on a new construction, under the direction of messrs. George and Charles Gough) has also been launched, and bids fair, from her appearance, to do honour to the ship builders of this town. Exclusive of these vessels here are several new ones now in port, ready for sea, several on the stocks, and some expected from below.

BALTIMORE, November 18.

We hear the frigate Chesapeak, now building at Portsmouth, (Virg.) will be launched the 20th instant.

The brig Jemima and Fanny, belonging to Baltimore, arrived safe in the Weser, about the 20th of September. On her passage passage through the English Channel, she was captured and carried into Bologne, in France where she underwent a very strict examination; but was suffered to proceed on her voyage on the fourth day after. No instance has occured, for a long time past, of any vessel being in this manner released, after having once been taken into a French port.

[Disgusting remark on the above by a True American.]

Our national measures begin to have their good effect in Europe. A stronger argument cannot be wished for holding out the arrows with the olive branch, than the speedy release of the Jemima and Fanny. We begin to be respected by those who respect not even the Deity himself.

[This nauseous emanation of True Americanism strongly borders on BLASPHEMY: if the miserable True American had told us, what is, perhaps, the fact, that this ship belongs to a Sam Smith, the mystery of the business would be at once at an end; for, if I recollect right, the very last vessels that were released by the French, were the property of him or his house.]

Arrived, Captain Clayton, of the brig Felicity, has politely favoured us with the following handed to him by the captain of the Chesapeake:

Remarks on board the Chesapeake, Andrew Tombs, master, mounting 20 guns, on a passage from New-York, to New Orleans.

On the 2d October, in lat. 23, 49, Havanna bearing S. distant 37 miles, at 10 o'clock, A. M. the man at the mast-head descried a sail coming out from the land and bearing down upon us. At meridian, we found she gained upon us very fast and then prepared for action. At 3 P. M. I consulted with my officers and cabin passengers, who all agreed that it would not be prudent to hazard and action in the night, (should the vessel then in chace of us prove to be an enemy) and therefore concluded to shorten sail and see who she was, before dark. At half past 4 she fired upon and hoisted English colors, which we returned with a stern chaser and hoisted our ensign, on which she immediately hoisted the bloody flag at her fore top-mast-head. At a quarter past 5, she came up under our stern; I then hailed them and enquired who they were and where from, but could not understand the answer; they then hailed me in English and ordered me to lay my topsails to the mast or to abide by the consequences. I replyed that I was an American and would protect the trade. The word American was scarcely uttered before they gave three cheers and poured a broadside and volley of small arms into us, which we returned, and a desperate engagement ensued, which lasted three quarters of an hour, when her quarter deck blew up, and she went down stern foremost. I immediately hove my ship to and hoisted my boat out, but unfortunately could not save one man.

She was a schooner, mounting 12 or 14 guns, and manned, as near as I could judge, with about 80 men—we had two wounded one of whom died the next morning; the other is in a fair way of recovery.

My ship received material injury in her masts, spars and rigging; the enemy having fired all kinds of combustibles and materials into us, such as iron spikes, (22 inches long) slugs, &c.

Extract from the log book of the ship Polly and Nancy, Colin Jackson, commander,

Who left St. Thomas on the 17th of October last, bound to Norfolk; her cargo consisting of sugar and rum, configned to John Grandberry, of Norfolk.

On the 25th of October, it came on to blow very severely, lost sight of the fleet and made the best of our way. On the 26th the gale still increasing, the ship laboring very hard, she began to make a considerable quantity of water, which the watch kept clear for 24 hours. On the 27th, all hands still employed at the pumps, the water still increasing in the hold, saw a brig to windward—made signals of distress, but no assistance was received from the brig; the water still gaining on us, and the wind hauling to the northward blowing very strongly, we bore away to the southward, in the hope of meeting with some of the fleet. On the 29th the water got above the ballast, the pumpwell was shortly stove in and broke to pieces, and both pumps were choked. Being in this condition, on the 30th October, and hogsheads of sugar and puncheons of rum floating through the hold, and the water increasing to an amazing heighth so as to reach the beams, all hands engaged themselves fore and aft in getting down the yard in order to form a raft, for the preservation of their lives.—At nine o'clock A. M. cut away the main and mizen masts; and the ship settling down fast in the water the hands particularly engaged themselves in making the raft, the water was by this time nearly over the lower deck. October 31, cut away both anchors from the bows; at 3 P. M. employed in cutting away the foremast, but were obliged to desist, by the water's coming in upon deck; the raft was launched and all hands got upon it, except the captain—the vessel went down in five minutes from the launching of the raft, the captain jumping over the stern and swimming to the raft. In this deplorable situation, and having nothing but two gallons of rum and six gallons of water and a small quantity of bread on the raft, we committed ourselves to the mercy of God; the sea continually washing over us, and sharks and dolphins playing round us; thunder and lighting with heavy rains whilst on the raft; several persons light headed—After being six days in this condition, we were picked up on the 5th instant, by the schooner Experiment, captain Isaac Field, of Baltimore, who treated us with the greatest kindness, and of which we shall ever entertain a sense of the highest gratitude. During the time of our being on the raft each man was allowenced to one gill of water per day.

Arrived this day the ship Hampton, captain George Lee, 47 days from Bremen.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE time being fixed on, when the MILITARY LAND (commonly called Knox's) WARRANTS, granted to the United States' army, are to be registered and located,—the subscribers have explored that tract of land on which those warrants are to be laid; with a view, and for the purpose of offering their services as locaters.

We take the liberty of suggesting, "that we are at least as well acquainted with the situation, quality of the soil, &c. of the different townships in the aforesaid tract, as any other person:" this will, perhaps, appear more clearly, by observing, that WILLIAM C. SCHENK assisted in running the Indian boundary line; at which time he considerably traversed that tract: he also assisted in surveying and laying it off into townships, and at other times ranged over it, to gain information. But to obtain a more complete and accurate knowledge, we have lately spent between two and three months, with several assistants, in particularly examining the different townships and quarter townships; by which means we have acquired an accurate knowledge of the whole district.—We now offer our services to the public, as Locaters, with assurances that we will locate every persons warrants intrusted to us to the best advantage, agreeably to their rights of location, which is to be determined according to law. For our services we demand the one equal tenth part, either in lands or warrants, when we locate a full tract, of four thousand acres or more; for one person or firm; the land to be taken in a square, at a corner of the tract; which corner is to be equitably determined before the time of location.—The one equal sixth part, in cash or warrants, when we connect and locate any amount less than four thousand acres. We will be in Philadelphia from December next, until after the time of location, to transact this business. Any person wishing to satisfy himself farther, will please to call on us, by letter, (postage paid) or otherwise; when due attention will be paid, and such vouchers may be seen as we have to offer, which we hope will be satisfactory.

MARTIN BAUM,
WILLIAM C. SCHENCK.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9, 1799. eow.

To the Holders of
MILITARY LAND WARRANTS.

THE Subscriber having lately returned from viewing the land, surveyed and appropriated to satisfy the land warrants, issued by the secretary at war, to the officers and soldiers of the late continental army; and having made arrangements with Mr. James Johnson, of Chester county, Pennsylvania, who he left on the land, and who with the assistance of an intelligent inhabitant of that county, will spend five months in exploring the different sections. He will take regular notes, descriptive of the soil, situation, and natural advantages attached to each section in the whole survey—which notes will be placed in the hands of the subscriber previous to the period for locating, thereby enabling him to make the most advantageous locations the priority will admit.

He offers his service to the holders of land warrants of the above description, throughout the United States, to receive their warrants, class them, (as no less quantity than 4000 acres will be registerd at the office of the treasury) have them registered agreeable to law, and attend to make the location at the time appointed in February next.

For transacting the business, one tenth part of the land specified in the warrants will be required, and no other charge, except the postage of letters. All warrants forwarded and letters addressed to the subscriber, at No. 3, Penn-street, Philadelphia, will receive immediate attention.

TERMS
Of Richard Folwell, in Philadelphia,
FOR SUBSCRIBING TO THE JOURNALS OF CONGRESS,
FROM THE COMMENCEMENT
Of the American War, in 1774, to the present time,
INCLUDING
The Reports of Heads of Departments, of Committees, and other Official and Private Papers of that Body, now first permitted to be made public.

TERMS.

THE work will be printed on a fine paper, and a new neat type, in large octavo.

Each volume will contain above 500 pages, neatly bound and lettered.

Uniformity in size, paper, and binding, will be observed throughout the work; so that, while the subscribers become possessed of a valuable record, an ornament may be added to their libraries.

The price to subscribers will be 2 dolls. 75 cts. per volume, in boards, and 3 dolls. whole bound, but, as the publisher does not intend to print manmore than the number subscribed for, a considerable rise on the price may be expected to non-subscribers.

Each volume will contain about one third less of letter-press than the original edition; but, as the publisher is not yet enabled to determine the extent of the Private Journals, which he may be allowed to make public, he cannot ascertain the number of volumes which will comprise the work.

☞ Payments to be made on delivery of each volume.

Subscribers will have it at their option, either to subscribe for the whole of the Journals, up to the present time, or to those only of the Old Congress prior to the organization of the Federal Government.

IN all countries, the proceedings in the commencement of their governments, are lost in darkness and obscurity, owing to a carelessness, in the succeeding generation, to preserve the public records, and the attention of the nation, in these rude ages, being called off from their domestic concerns, to engage in wars and conquest. Of what infinite value would the laws of Alfred be, had they been transmitted to our days? Time, that destroys every thing, enhances the value of well authenticated public records, and renders them almost inestimable. It is hoped, that Americans will, therefore, chearfully contribute their assistance in transmitting to posterity the labours of their ancestors—founders of the Columbian nation.

 The work will certainly be advanced with expedition and promptitude. The following will show the support it has already acquired:

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,
NOW RUNNING BETWEEN
PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,
By the short and pleasant road of Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch-Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New-York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street. It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For seats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Many, no. 43, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars.
Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation. They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has bren taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates. The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns spoken of with the highest satisfaction.
